About your Session

Scheduling Your Session

We recommend the best time to photograph newborn babies is within 14 days from birth where possible, while they are still sleepy and new. We do understand that this isn't always possible as some babies need to spend some extra time in hospital, and if this is the case there is no need for you to worry, we will schedule your session as soon as possible from when you and your baby return home. We will plan your session based on your estimated due date by making a tentative booking and later scheduling your date once baby arrives.

On the Day

Sessions generally take between 2 and 3 hours depending on your baby's feeding and cuddling needs. Our cosy studio is specifically tailored to the comfort of your baby, and is kept lovely and warm. We always set aside our entire working day for your newborn session, as some babies can take extra time to settle and we want to make sure that we have enough time to accommodate you and ensure that you won't feel worried about time or stressed if your baby does require extra time to settle. and involves us taking posed shots of your sleeping baby on 1 or 2 backdrops and posed in 1 to 3 prop setups (baskets, crates, bowls etc) along with portraits of Mummy & Baby, Daddy and Baby, and your Baby with his or her siblings. We allow lots of time for cuddles and extra feeds to keep your baby feeling comfortable and safe.

We like to involve you in the styling of the session, and encourage you to bring any of your own belongings you may wish to have included as discussed in your consultation.

Ordering

Your image viewing and design consultation is scheduled for a mutually suitable time and date, usually within 1-2 weeks following your session, and this time will be booked on the day of your portrait session. It is required that both you and your partner attend so that you both take part in the selection of your portraits.
